DETAILED ACTION

An updated search and review of the claims submitted on 5/26/09 necessitated the following non-final rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 9,10,16,24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Baharav et al (US 2004/0208347).

Regarding claim 9, A laser multiplexing apparatus for laser produced plasma generation, comprising:

at least two pulsed laser sources for generating pulsed laser beams (120); a temporal interleaving element arranged for temporally interleaving the pulsed laser beams to propagate along a common output path (light controller and 110-section 73); and a laser multiplexing element comprising a compound lens having at least two focusing elements arranged to focus at least two respective laser beams to a focal point on a common work piece (image plane).-see elements 130 a-c.

Regarding claim 10, the light controller changes the emission time of the light sources.

Regarding claim 16, see element 130a-c.

Regarding claim 24, A laser multiplexing apparatus comprising: a plurality of laser sources each of which generates a laser beam along an axis that is laterally and/or angularly spaced apart from the axes of all other laser beams; and a temporal multiplexing (120 a-c) element that is configured and arranged to temporally interleave the laser beams from the plurality of sources such that the plurality of laser beams all propagate close together; wherein the temporal multiplex element comprises an array of respectively closed spaced, small lens forming a "fly eye" arrangement(see elements 130 a-c.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-3, 18, 28 are allowed.

Claims 11,12,14,26,27 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
